British And French Interests In Abyssinia Will Be Respected

The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Walter Runciman, above, stated in the House of Commons yesterday that discussions were proceeding for the revision of the Anglo-Argentine trade agreement.

ANTI-COMMUNIST CO-OPERATION

THIN END OF THE WEDGE

JAPANESE INFLUENCE IN CHINA

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.

Considerable surprise was felt in Government circles here upon receipt of a Tokyo report that Mr. Hachiro Arita, Japanese Foreign Minister, insists on joint Sino-Japanese co-operation in fighting the Communists in China.

This co-operation is strongly opposed by the South-west leaders, who some months ago addressed a telegram to Nanking enquiring whether any co-operation had been agreed upon. No reply has been received up to now, but the spokesman of the Nanking Foreign Office denied the acceptance of such a pact.

Combined Sino-Japanese suppression of the Reds would give the Japanese an opportunity to send troops to any part of China, and once they reached the interior of the country, the Japanese troops would not leave. This is the opinion of foremost Kuomintang leaders, such as Messrs. Hu Han-min, Chou Lou and Hsiao Fu-chen.

Japan's foreign policy is to befriend Great Britain and the United States and to dominate the foreign relations of China, according to Tokyo reports. The objective is to isolate the Soviet Union. Sino-Japanese action against the Communists also means a combined drive against Russia, the despatches hint.

ARMAMENTS IN AMERICA

Senator Nye Expresses His Opinion

Washington, To-day.

The Senate has passed the war debt appropriation bill, which now goes to the President.

In the course of the debate Senator Nye condemned large armaments as inevitably leading to war. He particularly attacked the authorisation to build two new battleships.

He said: "The talk of war with Japan springs up every time military appropriations are introduced into Congress, but the military dominance in Japan would have died long ago if annually the United States did not give it a chance to point to our armament programme." — Reuter.

TOTAL ANNEXATION OF ABYSSINIA

PROBABLE NEXT MOVE BY ITALY

TRAITOR TO BE APPOINTED TO GOVERNORSHIP?

Rome, To-day.

Italy's decision as to the future status of Abyssinia will not be announced before the meeting of the League Council on Monday, and may not even be known then. Official circles are silent and merely reiterate that French and British treaty rights will be respected.

The rapid occupation of Addis Ababa and the flight of the Emperor have taken official circles by surprise. The Negus's flight is held to be juridically tantamount to abdication, and there is now no Government with which Italy can negotiate. The Abyssinian representative at Geneva has no credentials, and is not in a position to negotiate. Italy is therefore left the task of creating a Government, and for a long time the country is likely to remain under military rule.

The talk of the creation of a puppet Emperor is discredited, though a number of native provincial Governors with wide autonomous powers might be established. These would include Ras Gugsu, who deserted to the Italians at the beginning of the campaign.

NO MORE MILITARY TRAINING IN PEIPING

Japanese Pressure Believed Behind Latest Move

Peiping, To-day.

The Kopei-Chahar Political Council has decreed the suspension of military training in all universities and schools here and has ordered military instructors to leave Peiping immediately. The move is reported to be due to Japanese pressure. — Reuter.

PREMIUM ON NOTES

Forced Up By False Rumours

MR. CHOU LOU NOT TO RESIGN

[From Our Own Correspondent]

Canton, To-day.

In an effort to push down the value of Government banknotes, speculators are passing around the rumour that Mr. Chou Lou, ranking political leader in the South-west and head of Sun Yat-sen University, will shortly resign and go to Europe.

The secretary of the University stated this morning that there was no basis for such a report, as Mr. Chou Lou is making new plans for the University for the next academic year. Should Mr. Chou go to London to attend the conference of University Chancellors, he will return to the University here before the autumn term begins, the secretary said.

As a result of the unfounded rumour concerning Mr. Chou, the premium for Hong Kong banknotes rose to 53.5 cents in the dollar last night.

BRIG-GEN. BEAUMONT LEAVES SHANGHAI

Shanghai, To-day. — Brigadier-General J. C. Beaumont, whose promotion from the rank of Colonel became effective when he was relieved by Colonel C. F. B. Price, the new commander of the 4th United States Marines, has left for home via Siberia. — Reuter.

It is believed that the annexation of Abyssinia will be recommended at tomorrow's meeting of the Fascist Grand Council. In this event the Council of Ministers, which meets immediately afterwards, will translate the recommendation into a decree.

Rome, Later: "There is only one outcome of the problem of Ethiopian territory, namely, its annexation, pure and simple, to Italy," declares Gayda in the Giornale d'Italia, who adds: "This annexation corresponds to the right of Italy as conqueror and to the right of the native population to have the peace, order and protection which they ask, and which the Fascist Government has promised."

ANNEXATION EDICT
Signor Mussolini is expected to announce the annexation of Abyssinia, to 300,000 people in the Piazza Venezia to-morrow. All the Fascist organisations have been ordered to attend to hear the Duce communicate the decision of the Grand Council at about 11 p.m. — Reuter.

GRAND COUNCIL SUMMONED
Rome: An extraordinary meeting of the Fascist Grand Council has been summoned for 10 p.m. to-morrow, at which Signor Mussolini will preside. It is expected that the Council, which is only competent to consider questions affecting Italy's frontiers, will take important decisions regarding Abyssinia.

King Victor Emmanuel has bestowed the Grand Cross of the Order of Savoy on Signor Mussolini, in recognition of the victorious conclusion of the war. — Reuter's Bulletin Service.

THANKS EXPRESSED
London: A telegram has been sent to Sir Sidney Barton, British Minister in Addis Ababa, expressing His Majesty's appreciation of the manner in which he has discharged his responsibilities for the interests of British nationals and other foreign nationals in Abyssinia, who have sought his protection, during the period of difficulty and the trying experiences of recent days.

The American Ambassador in London has expressed to the Foreign Secretary the appreciation and thanks of the United States Government for the prompt and efficient assistance rendered by the British Minister at Addis Ababa in evacuating the staff of the United States Legation. — British Wireless Service.

Premier Benito Mussolini, above, has been decorated with the Grand Cross of the Order of Savoy as the result of the successful Italian campaign in Abyssinia.

U.S. MONETARY POLICY

Morgenthau Still Cautious

Washington, To-day.

Mr. Henry A. Morgenthau, Secretary of the Treasury, declined to discuss the foreign exchange situation, except to say that it was still nervous.

Asked if he would permit the shipment of gold to New York on the British account with a view to facilitating the pegging of sterling in the event of a French gold embargo, Mr. Morgenthau said: "It would be unwise to answer that."

Concerning the monetary conversations with the Chinese Mr. Morgenthau said that the progress was being accelerated, but the conference had not yet concluded. He flatly denied the reports that the Treasury would use the profits realised from the silver programme for the payment of the bonus. — Reuter.

FRANCE DILLY-DALLIES

Paris, to-day. — The further shelving of sanctions at Monday's meeting of the League is fore-shadowed by the Government decision, which is understood to be to urge the adjournment of serious business pending the formation of a new Government in Paris. — Reuter.

HINDENBURG'S FLIGHT

One-Third Way Across Atlantic

[CHINA MAIL] SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.

At 7 p.m. yesterday the airship Hindenburg gave her position as being 48.58 North, 24.25 West. The dirigible, which is proceeding at a speed of about 70 miles per hour, has thus covered one-third of the total distance across the Atlantic. — Trans-Ocean Service.

NEW AIRPORT FOR LONDON

Estimated Cost Of £600,000

London, To-day.

The Court of the Common Council of the City of London has approved the proposal for the establishment of an airport at Fairlands, near Ilford, Essex, at an estimated cost of £600,000. — British Wireless Service.

1906 TREATY STILL RECOGNISED

THREE DECISIONS MADE BY MUSSOLINI

GENERAL GARIBALDI APPOINTED GOVERNOR OF ADDIS ABABA

[CHINA MAIL] SPECIAL

Paris, To-day.

That the Italian Government informed the French and British Governments that Abyssinia must henceforth be regarded as Italian territory is the assertion made by the press, which also claims authority for stating that the Italian Ambassador, Signor Cerrutti, communicated to the Quai d'Orsay the following three decisions taken by Signor Mussolini:

- (1) Italy will respect the French rights in Abyssinia, especially those embodied in the railroad from Addis Ababa to Djibouti;
- (2) Italy will respect the interests of the British Government in the Tsana territory;
- (3) Italy is not envisaging the military training of the native Abyssinians.

These assurances are interpreted here to signify that Italy, in reorganising Abyssinia, will take due account of the Anglo-French-Italian Treaty of 1906, by which Abyssinia was divided into three respective spheres of interest, providing, however, that Abyssinia is recognised as Italian territory.

Addis Ababa: Marshal Badoglio has appointed General Garibaldi, Commander of the Sabauda Division, to be military Governor of Addis Ababa. The civil Governor, Signor Bottai, former Governor of Rome, has appointed several experienced colonial officials, who formerly resided in Abyssinia, to assist him in organising the administration.

NO SUCCESSOR TO NEGUS

Rome: It is stated that Italy will not appoint a successor to Haile Selassie, but will leave the various tribes autonomous under Italian sovereignty.

FRENCH MINISTER HONOURED

Paris: The Cabinet has conferred on the French Minister to Addis Ababa a Commandership in the Legion of Honour, in recognition of the services rendered and the courage displayed by him during the siege of the Legation by the plundering mob. The Minister's wife, Madame Bodard, received on the same occasion the Rosette of a Knight of the Legion of Honour for the aid given by her. — Trans-Ocean Service.

NO COMPROMISE

Smaller States Stand Up For Principle

Geneva, To-day.

The so-called neutral States are taking the bit between their teeth. According to an announcement, an important meeting is being held on Saturday to deal with the attitude to be adopted by the Danish representative on the Council regarding the Abyssinian dispute. The Foreign Ministers of Sweden, Norway, Denmark and Holland will at present attend, and Spain and Switzerland will be invited.

It is believed that the Scandinavian States may threaten to resign if there is a tendency to compromise with Italy. — Reuter.

Other Cables on Abyssinia will be found on page 10.

The traitor Ras Haile Selassie Gugsu, above, who deserted to the Italians at the outset of the Italian-Abyssinian war, will be rewarded by the Governorship of a province, according to reports from Rome.

TANGANYIKA MANDATE

More Questions In Parliament

POSITIVELY NO TRANSFER CONTEMPLATED

London, To-day.

The Prime Minister, asked in the House of Commons yesterday to allay the anxieties expressed in the recent declaration by professional business and public men in Tanganyika regarding the alarm among the European, Indian and native inhabitants caused by uncertainty as to the attitude of the British Government on the future of the mandate, replied by recalling the categorical statement he had made on April 27, that the Government had not considered and were not considering the transfer of any mandated territory.

The Dominions Secretary, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, likewise recalled this statement in reply to a suggestion in a question addressed to him that he should enter into consultation with the Dominion Governments with a view to a uniform declaration of policy regarding the future of the mandated territories. — British Wireless Service.

MR. JUSTICE R. E. LINDSELL

TO GO HOME VIA SUEZ

The many friends of Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell will be glad to learn that he is making a good recovery from his recent heart attack and that he will be passing through the Colony on his way home on leave some time next week.

It will be remembered that Mr. Justice Lindsell, who had been the Acting Chief Justice since Sir Atholl MacGregor went away on leave some months ago, left the Colony for home via America, on Friday, May 1, on the R.M.S. Empress of Japan. He was, however, the victim of a heart attack while on the high seas and was rushed to a hospital when the ship arrived in Shanghai.

Instead of continuing his voyage via America, Mr. Justice Lindsell has decided to travel to England via Suez and will arrive in the Colony next Friday by the a.s. Rajputana, but it is not yet known whether he will go on from here by the same vessel or make other arrangements.

STILL A GOVERNMENT IN ETHIOPIA

M. Martin Waxes Sarcastic

London, To-day.

An erroneous impression seems to be widespread that there is no longer an effective Government in Ethiopia, says M. Martin, the Ethiopian Minister, in a letter to The Times. "I wish to state definitely that a group of Ministers is carrying on the Government from the west. They are in possession of the archives and are in effective authority over three-fifths of the country. To reveal their locality at present is impolitic. It would invite the use of bombs and poison-gas." — Reuter.

NEGUS AT HAIFA

Royal Salute To Be Fired

[CHINA MAIL] SPECIAL

London, To-day.

The Negus of Abyssinia, on his arrival in Haifa, where he is expected to-day, will be awaited by a guard of honour composed of a battalion of the First Lancashire Regiment, according to despatches which add that the royal salute will be fired in honour of the monarch. The latter will immediately go on to Jerusalem by special train.

The authorities of Haifa state that the Negus will not be permitted to communicate with strangers so long as he remains under the protection of the British Government, but that on his reaching Jerusalem, full liberty will be accorded to him in respect of press representatives. — Trans-Ocean Service.

HELP IN TIME OF DEPRESSION

Art To The Rescue

A SUGGESTION BY MR. LASZLO SCHWARTZ

Mr. Laszlo Schwartz, the eminent Hungarian humorist, in the course of an interesting address to the Hong Kong University Arts Association last night, advocated the establishment of an annual Fine Arts Festival. The speaker outlined what such a festival might do for Hong Kong in the matter of trade and tourist attraction as well as art.

A large gathering of members and their friends were present at the lecture, including Mr. T. A. Martin, President of the Arts Association. The speaker was introduced by Mr. Cheng Yum-yue, the Chairman.

Long-Cherished Idea
Mr. Schwartz said he had had in mind for a long time the idea of this Annual Fine Arts Festival, but it had taken his present visit to the Colony to bring it to full flower. The matter concerned not only Hong Kong, but was of international significance. Sponsored in Hong Kong, the scheme would bring the greatest of returns to the Far East.

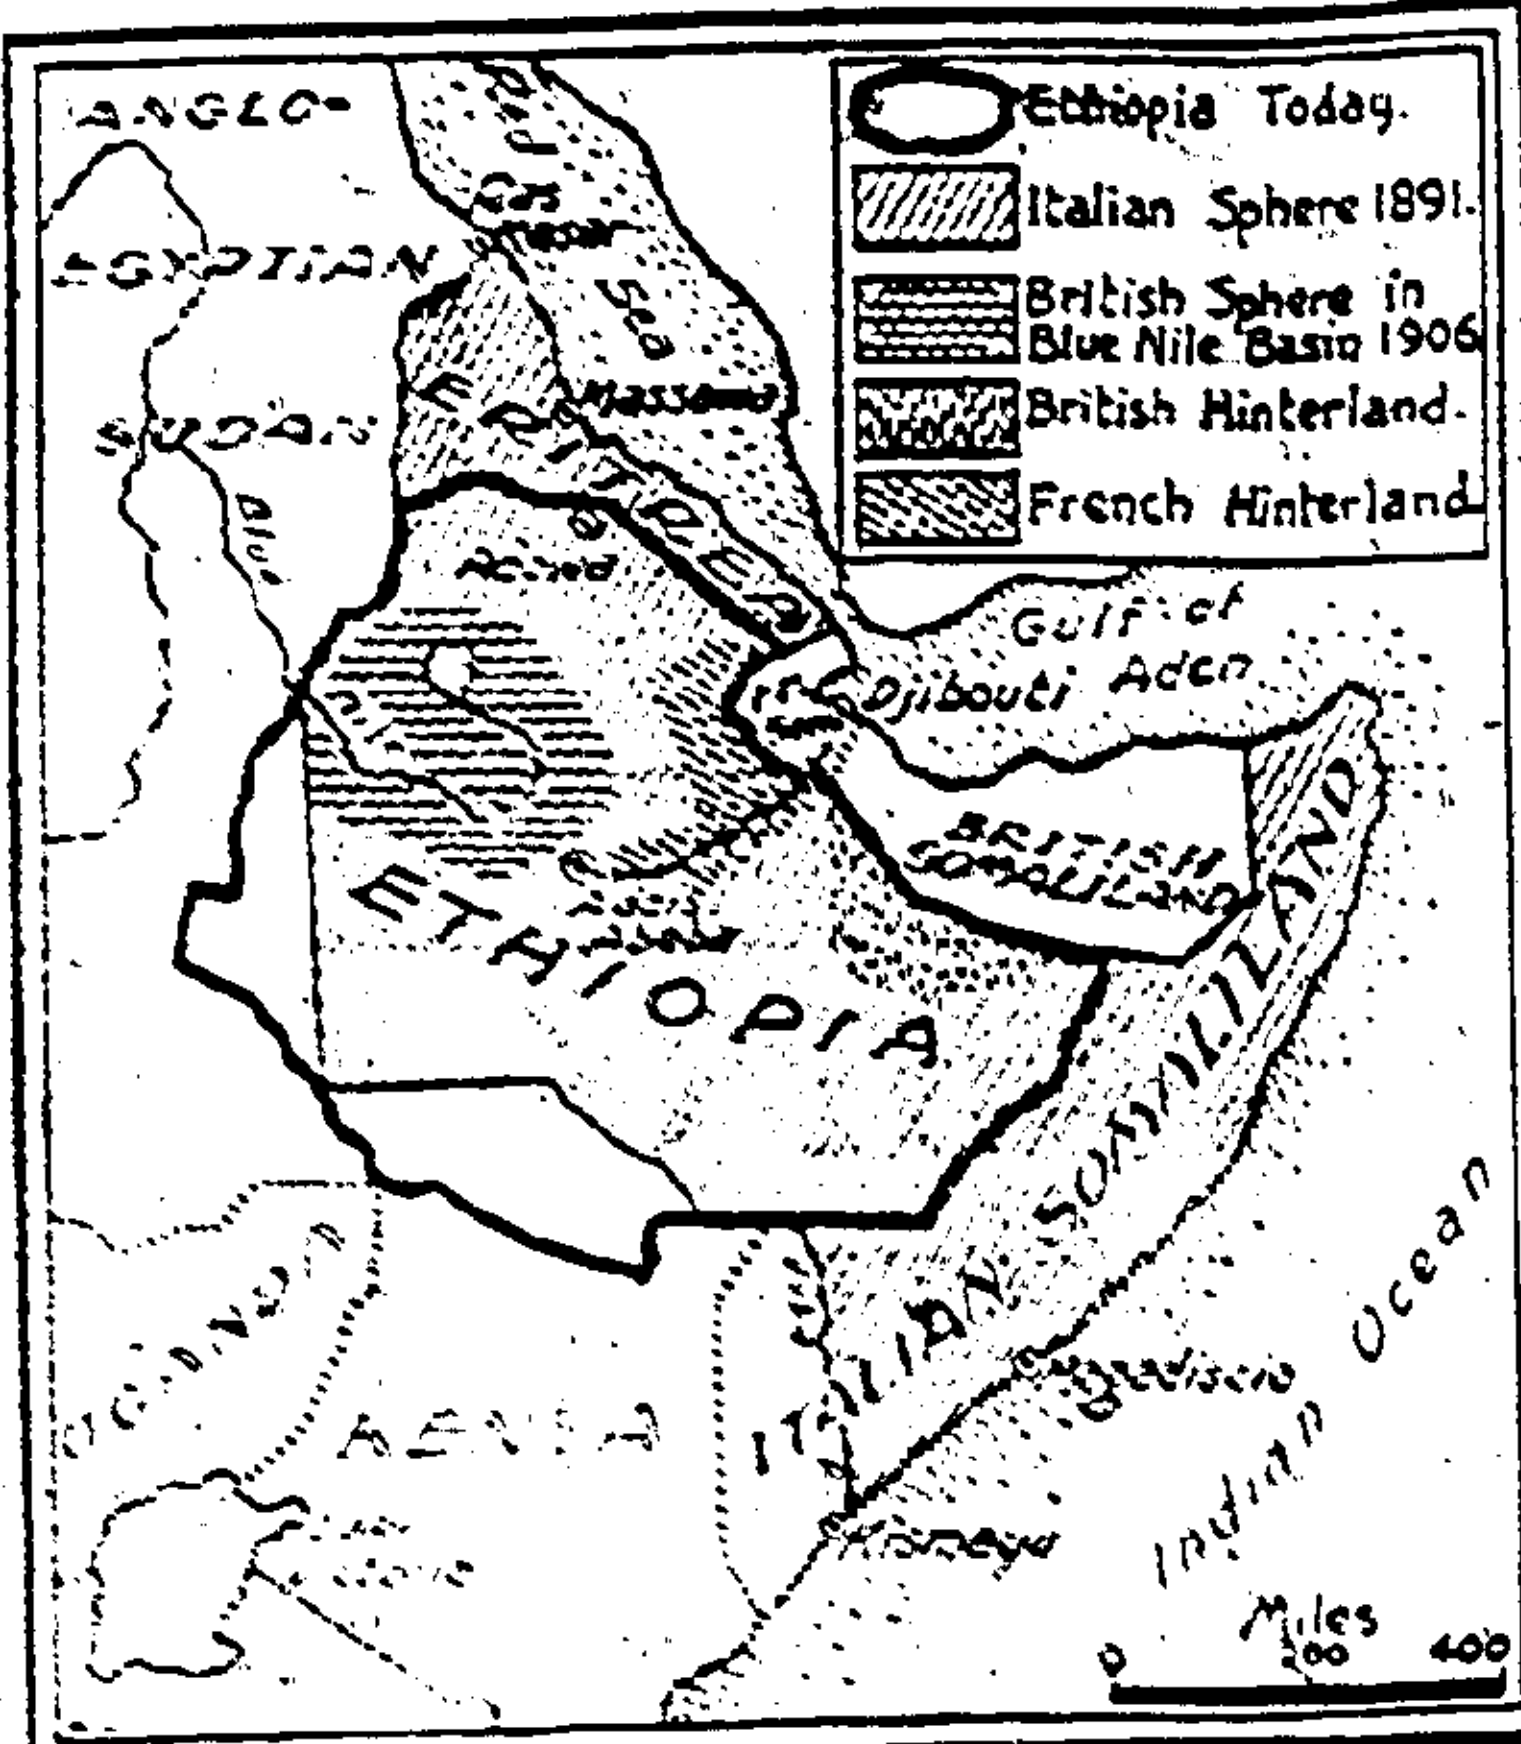

He had chosen Hong Kong because from every angle, geographical, publicity possibility, world sympathy, elements of exoticism, and artistic background, this city was ideally suitable for such a venture. India would have a hard time organizing such an undertaking because of its unwieldy size, and other handicaps; Japan did not at the moment enjoy the sympathy of the whole world; China was too much in a state of flux; Siam was not geographically favourable. The only other possible place would be the Dutch East Indies.

Tourist Possibilities
The Festival would consist of a complete representation of the Fine Arts of every land in the Far East. Each Government would be asked to co-operate in making it a huge and hitherto unheard of event, that Music and other Art festivals would pale alongside it. Every land in the East would be asked to send its best performers and creative artists, as well as the works of their best artists, ancient and modern, to be represented.

The Festival would bring a volume of profit to the hotels, steamship companies, transport, dealers of art works, and others in the Colony. These concerns could advertise the attractions, and it would pay. Good art could be made to pay.
Mr. Martin on behalf of the Arts Association thanked Mr. Schwartz for his very interesting and thought-provoking address, and proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker, which was cordially endorsed by the audience.

VIA SIBERIA—Letters and postcards for Europe and South America are forwarded "via Siberia" if so superscribed.

REGISTERED and PARCEL MAILS are closed 15 minutes earlier than the time given above unless otherwise stated, and where mails are advertised to close at or before 8 a.m., registered and parcel mails are closed at 5 p.m. on the previous day.
AIR MAIL—Imperial Airways via Singapore, Saigon-Marseilles via Saigon. Correspondence for Europe and intermediate countries will be accepted for transmission by these services. Rates and all particulars are shown in the schedules exhibited at the General Post Office and Kowloon Office. All letters etc., must be marked "By Air Mail" and handed in at the General Post Office. Unless superscribed for despatch by a specific air mail service, correspondence will be forwarded by the first service available.

Our map shows the apportionment of the spheres of influence in Abyssinia before the Italo-Ethiopian war. All will now be changed by the expected declaration of the total annexation of Abyssinia by Italy, though it is stated by authoritative Italian quarters that the treaty rights of England and France will be respected, provided the conquered country is admitted to be Italian.

CHARGE OF BRIBING REVENUE OFFICERS

Defence Submissions

RANDALL ELECTS TO MAKE NO STATEMENT

The case was continued yesterday afternoon, before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Magistrate's Court, against Albert Randall and seven Chinese, who are charged with conspiring to bribe Revenue Officers of the Import and Export Department.

Randall is also charged with giving a bribe of $500 to Senior Chinese Revenue Officer Mo Kang at the To Yuen Restaurant on March 21. The Chinese defendants are as follows: Li Yick, 32, master of the Wing Lee firm, 18, Queen's Road West; Leung Yau, 32, unemployed, 501, Queen's Road West; Ho Loi, 27, salesman, 121, Taiman Street; Ho Shum, 29, unemployed, 4, Wah Lane; Li Kwai-yick, 40, unemployed, 32, Wing Lok Street; Kwan Sing, 36, unemployed, 15, Upper Lascar Row; and Ngan Cheong, 29, unemployed, 24, Possession Street. Randall, who was represented by Mr. W. C. Hunz, of Messrs. Deacons, in the absence of Mr. W. A. Mackinlay through indisposition, reserved his defence and made no statement.

Mr. E. H. Williams, Assistant Attorney General, assisted by Detective Inspector M. Murphy, conducted the prosecution, while Mr. W. M. Brown appeared on behalf of the Chinese defendants.

Formal evidence given by Kwan Tat-choi, police translator, regarding translations of note-books and papers found on all of the defendants, concluded the Crown case.

Mr. Brown's Case
Dealing with the case against the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth defendants, Mr. Brown submitted that, as the learned Assistant Attorney General had said in his opening, the only evidence against them was that they were found on the floor of the To Yuen Restaurant; that they were introduced by Li Yick as collectors and their names were noted on a piece of paper. In answer to the charge of conspiracy all the defendants said they did not know anything about it or words to that effect. The work. — Reuter.

FREAK WHIST HANDS

One Suit To Each Player

A player at a whist drive at Lydney, Gloucester, found that he had been dealt a complete suit of diamonds. Diamonds were trumps. More remarkable still, it was found that the three other players at the same table had each complete suits. The cards had been well shuffled and had been cut twice. The holder of the trumps was Tom Rees, a well-known Lydney man.

All the players at the drive were wondering whether a world's record had been established at the table. It had not. At least two previous cases of four players each having 13 cards of the same suit have been reported. The odds against this happening have been estimated at about 635,000,000 to one.

Mrs. Mary MacRobert

WIFE OF CHINESE MARITIME CUSTOMS OFFICER

The death has occurred at the age of 28 of Mrs. Mary MacRobert, wife of Captain I. MacRobert of the Chinese Maritime Customs.

Mrs. MacRobert is a member of a well-known local family, being the daughter of Mr. R. C. Wittell.

The funeral has been arranged to take place at the Colonial cemetery, at 5 p.m. on Saturday, when Captain MacRobert, who is away with his ship, the Li Kin, is expected to be back.

MR. A. VON GONTARD

Taken Ill While On World Tour

The death occurred yesterday in the Canossian Hospital at 8.55 a.m. of Mr. Alexander Carl von Gontard, retired broker of New York, who was travelling round the world, but was landed here early in April, and taken to hospital seriously ill. Later pneumonia supervened and Mr. von Gontard passed away as stated. He had intended to go to Japan and then to return to New York via Europe.

The funeral takes place this afternoon at Happy Valley, passing the monument at about 5.15 p.m.

I Turn Reporter—II

By Ely Culbertson

[Mr. Culbertson continues his description of a "friendly game" he recently watched. The first hand appeared yesterday.] "Well," remarked North cheerily as the cards were being dealt for the next hand, "if there's any justice it's our turn now." West, dealer.

The bidding:—
West North East South
Pass 1 diamond Double Pass
2 NT Pass 3 hearts Pass
3 spades pass 4 spades [final bid]

North opened the diamond king and South made the excellent play of failing to begin an echo, playing the deuce instead. North followed instructions and made the proper shift to a low club. Declarer played the ace from dummy and then dummy's two high trumps, cursing under his breath when North showed out on the second trump lead. The ace of hearts, followed by the king and queen, revealed the 4-2 division of that suit. Declarer's case was hopeless. There was no way to avoid the loss of two diamonds, one club, and one trump.

Now began the mutual admiration remarks on the part of the defenders.

"Nice work," said North. "If you'd have echoed for a diamond continuation the club jack could have been discarded from dummy on the third round of diamonds and the contract would have been so easy that even West would have made it."

"It's a pleasure to get a partner that follows signals," complimented South, in his turn.

"When you fellows get through patting each other's backs," growled West, "maybe we can play another hand that won't be stacked in your favour!"

In all fairness, there was justice in his complaint. Admittedly, the defence had been good, but, at the same time, the cards had broken badly for the declarer.

BACK TO NORMAL IN CAPITAL

Italian Troops Patrol Streets As Police

Addis Ababa, To-day.

Conditions in the city have now returned to normal, with Italian troops patrolling the streets as police, and the soldiers guarding the United States Legation have been withdrawn. Engineers have already repaired the Government wireless station, and 1,500 lorries are on the way with supplies.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

One case each of diphtheria and enteric fever were reported to the Health authorities during the 24 hours ended on Wednesday.

47 Killed In Spanish Disorders: 261 Injured

Madrid, To-day.

Forty-seven persons lost their lives, and 261 received injuries, during the last two months of disorder in Spain, according to the casualty list compiled by the Right Parties during the recent debate in the Cortes.

It was furthermore revealed that 52 large buildings, mostly churches, were destroyed by fire during the same period. The Right Parties asked the Government to bring the rioting to an end by disarming the anarchist elements of all parties.

The Minister of the Interior, Senor Casales Quiroga, stated that irresponsible persons were trying to incite the population to acts of violence by spreading wild rumours, but that the Government was adopting the strictest measures in combating them.—Trans-Ocean Service.

HORSEWOMAN KILLED

Mrs. Betty Cooper, aged 28, wife of Dr. G. Cooper, of Lyndhurst, Oxford-road, Woodstock, a research worker in the anatomical department of Oxford University Museum, died in the Radcliffe Infirmary at Oxford last month after being thrown while riding and kicked in the head.

"Had I only been warned!"

DANGER SIGNALS

Susceptibility to illness (one catches infection very easily).

Inability to withstand changes in temperature.

General Weakness (low vitality, fatigue, dizziness).

Nerve troubles, nervous headaches, etc.

Tooth decay (a sign that the mineral reserves of the body are exhausted).

Colds of long duration.

In Women (Weakness and pains in feminine complaints.)

"I have been a sufferer from severe period pains for the past seven years. After taking KALZANA I found total disappearance of the dreadful pains, also my general health has so much improved that I cannot speak too highly of KALZANA. No one could have suffered more acutely than myself, being incapable of attending my work, and it has given me great joy to recommend to many others my salvation."

Miss E. R., R. England.

That is what many a woman thinks, who feels her youth disappearing long before she is old in years. It is a sign of a lack of minerals in her body, showing itself in many minor symptoms. What has happened is this—The sap has been drained from the tree, the strength and suppleness are gone, she suddenly finds herself easily fatigued—growing old. If nothing is done, serious illness may follow.

As in all hot countries the lack of minerals is especially widespread. Do not delay in giving your body the vital minerals it needs. Start with Kalzana to-day. Kalzana will put youth and strength into your body, for minerals are the backbone of health and Kalzana the ideal mineral food.

Be a woman warned and act while there is still time. Do not wait till the flesh is flabby and headaches and anæmia have taken all the youth out of you.

Remember that these troubles of premature old age are simply due to the fact that something is missing in your body, something that can be replaced easily by a few Kalzana tablets a day.

Start taking Kalzana to-day and soon you will enjoy health and vitality again.

RECREIO COLLAPSE AMAZINGLY AGAINST CRAIGENGOWER "A"

PROSPECTS FOR LEAGUE
LAWN TENNIS

CHAMPIONS MISS LEE WAI TONG

I.R.C. MUCH STRONGER
THIS SEASON

(By "ACE")

Eight teams will vie with one another for honours in the premier division of the Hong Kong lawn tennis League series, which is due to commence towards the latter part of this month, and followers of the game will be glad to know that interesting changes made in several of the leading clubs will help materially to make the final issue a very open affair.

The champions, the Chinese Recreation Club, will be affected by the absence of Ho Ka-lau, who has gone North, and Lee Wai-tong, another outstanding performer, who is now on his way to Europe with the Chinese Olympic Football team. Lee's performances on local courts have been par excellence, and when speaking to a member of the C.R.C. I was told that the loss is far greater than can be imagined by most people, both from the point of view as a player and as a personality.

The champions, who are entering two teams, have had a record period of successes, and, with such a concrete background, must again be regarded as favourites for the League title. One or two vacancies will affect most teams, but the C.R.C. are more than fortunate in having several players who have previously assisted the "A" teams from time to time.

Probable Pairings

To date, no partnerships have been definitely decided upon by the C.R.C. captain, W. C. Hung, or the Committee, but it is generally considered that the Open Doubles champions, the Tsui brothers, will not be paired together. Lai Kwong-tsun may be seen in partnership with the younger Tsui, and W. C. Hung may be paired with either Lu Tak-cheuk or Luk Ding-cheung.

The Colony champion, Tsui Wai-pui, will in probability be paired with Paul Kong. This combination is, without a doubt, strong enough to cause more than a deal of worry to all opponents.

FUSILIERS MUST BEAT CLUB

Runners-Up Position In The Balance

SLOAN DOUBTFUL STARTER FOR CIVILIANS

The Fusiliers, who are gradually losing their opportunity of finishing runners-up in the Second Division of the football League, will play the Club to-morrow and cannot afford to drop a point, for, even if they win both of their remaining games, they can only tie with the East Lancers, in which case a play-off will be necessary.

The defence, with Cresty, in the pivotal position, and Saunders, in goal, should be able to hold the Club forwards, while Singleton, Bumster and Sullivan are quite capable of scoring goals.

Payne In Goal

The Club will have Payne in goal, with D. Hynes and Sykes at back. The intermediate line, which will probably be hard pressed against the Fusilier forwards, will be composed of Millington, Shaw and Hopkins.

Lammert will lead the forwards with Milne and E. Fowler supporting him as the inside forwards. Sloan is down to play on the left wing, though he is a doubtful starter on account of bowls.

A. Hyde-Lay, the K.C.C. skip, above, was featured in a thrilling and successful duel with J. Shepherd at the Valley last Saturday.

NAVY PLAY LAST LEAGUE SOCCER GAME

CLASH WITH CLUB TO-MORROW

FWOYER WILL BE MISSED ON WING BY CIVILIANS

The Navy will complete their fixtures in the Senior Division of the Football League when they meet the Club on the latter's ground to-morrow, and unless they give a better display than last week, the civilians will find it very difficult to secure even one point.

The Navy are fielding a very useful side and with the exception of Wollerson, whose place is being taken by Hills, of the junior team, the side is quite as strong as any fielded this season.

Spencer has not struck his best form since his promotion, but with McLeod and Gould assisting him he should be able to give the Club a busy afternoon.

Strange Returns

The return of S. Strange, after his honeymoon, will greatly strengthen the Club, and Robertson will make a welcome return at right-half.

ROVER'S FORECAST

The following is the forecast for the week-end fixtures, giving the favoured team in capital letters:

TO-MORROW
FIRST DIVISION
Club (4.45 p.m.)
Navy (4.45 p.m.)
Lyemun (R.A.) v Fusiliers (Sookunpoo, 4.45 p.m.)
SECOND DIVISION
Club (3.15 p.m.)
Fusiliers (Club, 3.15 p.m.)
SUNDAY
FIRST DIVISION
East Lancers v Club (Club, 4.45 p.m.)

FUSILIERS SHOULD BEAT LYEMUN

Though Gunners May Force Draw

TALBOT BACK TO PIVOT POSITION

Should both teams reproduce the same form they have displayed in their last few games, the encounter between the Fusiliers and Lyemun at Sookunpoo to-morrow should be interesting. Both teams beat the Club recently, though the Gunners provided the biggest surprise.

The Fusiliers are fielding their usual team, though Dennis, who plays in the forward line, is the only doubtful starter. The forwards will be led by Evans and will include Harrison and Hughes. Talbot will return to his old position as pivot, but he will have a busy time against the improved Gunner forward line.

EXCITING BOWLS ON POLICE GREEN

CIVIL SERVANTS CAUSE MAJOR UPSET

ELECTRIC TEAM'S REVIVAL

(By "Skip")

CLUB de Recreio nearly created the week's sensation with a win over Craigengower "A" last Saturday, when these two teams met at the Valley, the latter securing the League points by six shots. When it is noted that Craigengower were down by 15 shots at the fourteenth head, it will be realised what a change came over the game in the later stages. It was all due to Dick Basa, who piled up the points against F. X. M. de Silva, while U. M. Omar and R. F. Luz were only holding their own against Dick Alves and C. G. Silva respectively.

The latter two's wins were not enough to wipe out the 19-shot margin which Basa eventually secured, after scoring 22 to his opponent's two after the tenth head. Alves, by the way, had an inspired period midway through the game, and scored 15 in four heads—no mean feat against a player of Omar's calibre.

Last week I had occasion to comment on the fact that Hyde Lay had lost two fives in the last two heads and, although he has not made me eat my words, he certainly passed the buck by getting a four and a six in his last two heads against a Police rink skipped by J. Shepherd. The last head was very changeable and full of excitement.

When the skips went down the Police lay one shot, but A. Hyde Lay put a pound on and took this out to lay three. Shepherd drove, but the jack rebounded from a K.C.C. wood six.

Harry Westlake and his opposite number, Harry Rose, had a very keen game not to mention plenty of friendly backchat, the chief point in dispute being, apparently, who's turn it was to bend down to chalk the last touchers, which there were many on both sides.

C. H. Basto's Big Margin
At the K.C.C. where their second string played the Police, Jimmy Jack was up enough to carry two losing rinks, neither of which, it must be added in fairness, were very much down. A similar result eventuated at Club de Recreio, who were playing the Football Club's first string. C. H. Basto having enough in hand against Gregory to ensure success.

The first tie of the season, and one indicative of a revival of the Electric team, took place at Ming Yuen, where Craigengower, last week's conquerors of the Bowling Green juniors, were being entertained. If duties permitted of a little more consistency in the constitution of their rinks, I think the Electric Company's team would go far, but I suppose someone has to "make the wheels go round" and they are rarely, if ever, able to turn out their full strength.

Indians' Home Win
Down at Sookunpoo where the Kowloon Dock team were the visitors, the Indians got home as I anticipated, winning on two of the rinks. Mitchell, who got into the semi-final of the Open Singles Championship last year, was skipping one of the Dock rinks and was up on Madar by three shots after a neck-and-neck race all through, and Ramsey, the Inter-port lead, who was also skipping for the first time, I believe, went down by four to the left-handed Minu. On the other rink a four, followed by a six made all the difference between Dallas and McKelvie, and for that matter, in the match.

In the Second Division, the Junior champions won as was expected, being up on all rinks, M. Omar, W. V. Field (skip).

C.C.C. "A"
A. E. Coates, A. A. Razack, D. Runjahn, R. F. Luz (skip).
C. S. Summons, A. S. Gomes, J. Cavanagh, U. M. Omar (skip).
J. S. Landolt, V. N. Atienza, E. Arculli, R. Basa (skip).
C.C.C. "B"
J. E. Soares, L. C. R. Souza, K. M. Omar, W. Gill (skip).
A. J. Coelho, E. W. Whitman, M. A. R. Souza, C. S. Roaselet (skip).
J. W. Leonard, H. W. Randall, M. Omar, W. V. Field (skip).

V. Ramsay, above, the Inter-port lead, suffered his first defeat of the season as a skip for Kowloon Docks last Saturday.

BOWLING GREEN TO ENCOUNTER CHAMPIONS

Taikoo's First Game
This Season

DEATH OF G. J. CHAMBERS

(By "SKIP")

Craigengower, "A's" visit to the Bowling Green should produce some good bowling to-morrow in the Senior Division, and is the "tip" of the programme. I think the visitors should just about win, but there should not be much in it at the end. The absence of two of last year's players in B. W. Bradbury and H. Beer does not seem to have weakened the champions at all, and that it is not safe to take things easily, even if you have a good lead, was proved by their magnificent recovery last week.

The Civil Service C.C. should account for the Indians, but I cannot see the Police team coming away heavily laden with points from (Continued on Page 5.)

YEAR'S CHAMPION

LEWIS HEADS JUNIOR LIST

R. DUNCAN, the Colony Singles and Pairs Lawn Bowls champion, at present leads the First Division Skips' table with a 100 per cent. record, being 19 shots up, while C. G. Silva, the Recreio skip who headed the table last year, is one shot behind, also with 100 per cent.

A. A. Lewis, of Craigengower, leads the Junior Skips with two wins in as many games. He is followed by G. E. F. Thompson, of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, with the same number of wins but 14 shots less.

IRON BUX BACK IN COLONY

Fight With L. Edwards Recalled

SURPRISE FOR HIS WIFE

"Iron" Bux, former light-weight boxing champion of the Orient, returned to the Colony this morning by the s.s. President Jefferson, after an absence of seven years in the Philippines, where he was engaged in giving lessons in the fight game as well as acting as trainer to some of the leading lights.

Bux, who also held the welter-weight title of the Philippines, has long since retired from boxing, but he is still as keen as ever on this form of sport and deprecates the lack of enthusiasm here, as he is of the opinion "that some of the local boys can be trained up into good boxers." He recalls his fight with Lew Edwards, holder of the Lonsdale Belt, as the hardest welterweight battle he ever had. On that occasion he broke his wrist in the ninth round and had to retire.

"Nobody knows that I have come back," said Bux to a China Mail representative, "and I am waiting to meet my wife in her office, just to give her a surprise." He concluded that he has had enough "roaming about" and has come back to settle down in Hong Kong for good.

ENGLISH LADIES' GOLF TOURNEY COMMENCES

The English Ladies' Golf Championship commences to-day at Gleneagles, when the holder, Mrs. Canton. As a singles player, Bodiker can go a long way, being a base-line artist to perfection, but he is not a good doubles player—in doubles, attack is the order of the day, no matter how strong or weak the pairs may be. From what I was given to understand, the Fincher brothers, A. E. P. Guest, A. W. Ramsay and S. A. Gray will be seen in the colours of the K.C.C. These six players, having years of League competition as an incentive, should offer strong competition to any Club.

Ralph Metcalfe, above, considered America's leading athlete for the Berlin World Olympiad to be held in August.

PROSPECTS FOR LEAGUE LAWN TENNIS

As a group of players, the C. R. C. team have certainly the necessary standard of talent to maintain that "mechanical efficiency" which impresses followers of tennis, and has more than once proved demoralising to opponents.

Teams most likely to offer strong competition to the champions are the Kowloon Cricket Club and the Indian Recreation Club, and, as in the case of the C.R.C., no definite forming of pairs have yet been decided upon at these clubs.

Not Doubles Player

The K.C.C. have acquired the services of G. Bodiker, who in the past has made a reputation in Gleneagles, when the holder, Mrs. Canton. As a singles player, Bodiker can go a long way, being a base-line artist to perfection, but he is not a good doubles player—in doubles, attack is the order of the day, no matter how strong or weak the pairs may be. From what I was given to understand, the Fincher brothers, A. E. P. Guest, A. W. Ramsay and S. A. Gray will be seen in the colours of the K.C.C. These six players, having years of League competition as an incentive, should offer strong competition to any Club.

Hoosen Promoted

The Indian Recreation Club have the Rumjahn cousins, F. D. Pereira, A. R. Minu, O. Hoosen, I. M. A. Razack, A. H. Madar, A. K. Sufiad and S. A. Ismail. Of these players, Hoosen has been definitely promoted to the senior division. His improvement has been amazing. Finalist in the I.R.C. Singles Championship twice, his tennis has more than warranted recognition and his reward for consistency has been the promotion to the "A" grade.

S. A. Rumjahn has given me to understand that A. R. Kitchell is also likely to be promoted to the senior division.

New Talent

So far, information on the senior division teams is very vague, due no doubt to the fact that most clubs have only just started practising. Discovery of new talent is, of course, most essential to any club, and until a week or 10 days before the opening games of the League, it is most difficult to state what are the possibilities of team formation.

One thing, however, is certain, and that is that the 1936 League Tennis season is going to be an exceptionally keen and interesting one.

The Gunners are making no changes in their team and, with Haldane and Knight in form, Rowlands should have a busy afternoon.

Taylor, Morton and Lucas are a hard working half-back line, but they will probably find the opposing attack a little too strong. If they can cope with it, then the Gunners have a good chance of at least sharing the points.

The following are the probable teams:

Fusiliers:—Rowlands; Wheeler, Keating; Wanklyn, Talbot; Ellis; Hughes, Harrison, Evans, Dennis and Roberts.
Lyemuns:—Macmillan; Boyle and Clancy; Taylor, Morton and Lucas; Bedford, Haldane, Knight, Cooper and Rivers.

"SCHEMLING IS EASY MEAT FOR BROWN BOMBER"

Jack Dempsey Casts His Vote

SAYS JOE LOUIS WILL WIN IN TWO ROUNDS

New York, April 15.
The prediction that Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight, will last "only two rounds" with Joe Louis, the deadly "Brown Bomber" from Detroit, who are scheduled to meet in June in an elimination bout, has been made by Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world.

The majority of ring critics do not concede the German much chance, many saying that they think five rounds will suffice for Louis to complete his evening's work.

Mike Jacobs, who is promoting the contest, and who brought back to boxing the almost forgotten million dollar "gate" last summer when he staged the Louis-Max Baer battle, has awarded the fight to New York City, despite the persistent bidding of Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago.

He has already sold the wireless rights to the fight. The purchasers are the Buick Motor Company, which sponsored the broadcast of last year's Louis-Baer battle, but the price paid has not been revealed.

Mr. Jacobs says, however, that the sum represents a new high record for boxing broadcasts. The Louis-Baer rights were sold for approximately $25,000.

Louis will start preliminary training for the bout late this month.

Late Training
The "Brown Bomber" has taken a place at Lafayetteville, New York, 16 miles from President Roosevelt's residence which overlooks the Hudson, and late in April will commence three weeks work to toughen him up.

The camp he has chosen consists of a log cabin and surrounding grounds. There Louis will confine his activities to wood-chopping, hill-climbing and fishing. He will do no boxing whatsoever during the three weeks.

BUDDY BAER TAKES BAD BEATING

Max Baer's Brother No Match For Frenchman

Oakland, Cal., April 23.
Buddy Baer, younger brother of Max Baer, whom the former champion once termed "better than I am," took a bad beating to-night from Andre Lenglet, French heavyweight, who has yet to lose a decision.

Lenglet "spotted" Baer 29 lb. but showed no effect of the handicap. He carried the fight to the giant Californian throughout and administered plenty of punishment. The judges awarded him the decision by a wide margin. The Frenchman weighed in at 216 lb. and the American at 245. The fight lasted only six rounds.

Lenglet, since 1932, has participated in 29 bouts, all of them in Europe with the exception of tonight's encounter, winning 27 and drawing two. Eighteen of his victories have been via the knockout route.—(United Press).

The absence of Fowler on the right-wing will, however, be greatly felt—though a winger, he has scored many goals for his side. Skinner, who will deputise, is essentially a half-back and is too slow on the wing.

Fleming's absence has made it necessary for Drown to take his place in the forward-line, where he will partner Bickford.

On Sunday the Club will complete their fixtures when they meet the East Lanes, and, provided no injuries are sustained to-morrow, the Club will field the same team.

The following are the probable teams:

Club:—Rodger, Nicholls and S. Strange; Robertson, Forrow and E. Strange; Skinner, Pearce, Elliot, Drown and Bickford.
Navy:—Wratton; Nicholson and Hills; Clarkson, Wride and Tuffnell; Baxter, McLeod, Spencer, Gould and Wearmouth.

Canton-Hong Kong Trade

At the annual meeting of the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce on Monday last,
the Chairman, the Hon. Mr. W.
H. Bell, spoke of an interchange of visits between the leading business men of Canton and of the Colony, visits which he hoped would be repeated from time to time, in order that the business men of the two cities, whose interests are so closely associated, may maintain close touch.

That their interests are in reality closely associated should be patent to all. South China being the "hinterland," as regards business, of Hong Kong, which depends largely for its living on its entrepot trade;
and, without flourishing business conditions in the "hinterland," the trade of the Colony must languish. But unless the Government at Canton is in sympathy with the merchants and works with and for them, flourishing trade conditions are hard to attain.

Singapore, like Hong Kong, depends upon its entrepot
trade; but it has the great advantage of possessing a "hinterland," in the Malay States, that is under British protection and cannot hamper trade with hostile tariffs. These conditions do not obtain in Hong Kong. It has long been the policy of the Cantonese Government to discourage the import of foreign goods as far as possible, by the imposition of crushing duties, and to establish factories of every kind to supply the local demand, with home-made wares—a legitimate enough ambition, but one that needs caution in the pursuing.
One must learn to walk before one can run. Unfortunately,
too, there have been at times in the Government men whose avowed aim it has been to destroy the trade of Hong Kong and to make Canton itself
the port of entry for the ocean-
borne commerce of South
China. Hence the grandiose schemes for the development of Whampoa as a port and the deepening of the channel of the Pearl River sufficiently to allow ocean-going steamers to anchor off the Canton Bund. Recently they have been forced to see that all the crushing duties on foreign imports and on the exports of their own merchants could never produce the money necessary for the carrying out of their dreams.

But the Canton Government apparently does not realise that China is not yet in a position to do without foreign goods. The day may come, and doubtless will, when China will be self-supporting; but it is not yet.
All these premature attempts to crush the importation of foreign goods can only result in failure and loss, to say nothing of other evils which they produce, such as smuggling,
which is being carried on to-day
on an unprecedented scale.

The Hon. Mr. Bell also announced, in his address to the the Chamber of Commerce, that the Canton-Hankow Railway will really be completed this year. Certain interests in Canton have for years fought strenuously against the completion of the six miles of line which would link it up with the Canton-Kowloon Railway and permit of through traffic to the Colony. Does this consent to the bridging of the gap imply a change of outlook on the part of the Canton Government?
And is it an earnest of other

KING OVER THE WATER

There are some good lines in the Jacobite national anthem inscribed on an "Amen" glass which is to be sold shortly at Christie's.
For instance:

God bless his subjects all
And save both great and small
In every station . . .
And I like the vigour of another verse which prays for the Church to be saved

Against all heresie
And Whigs Hypocrisie.
The wonder is how such a fragile thing could have survived, especially as Jacobites were usually credited with being hard drinkers. Later an inscription was added to the Old Pretender's younger son, "To his Royal Highness Prince Henry, Duke of Albany and York."

SIR WILLIAM JOWITT ABROAD

Like Herr Hitler, Sir William Jowitt is apt to suffer from throat strain. This has more than once in the past seriously affected his health. In the General Election last November he had a temporary breakdown.

He has lately again been in his doctor's hands. This is the reason, it is believed, why he anticipated
the Easter holidays by a fortnight.

Sir William is now recuperating abroad.

THE INDEPENDENCE OF AUSTRIA CHANCES OF COUP BY GERMANY

MAY BE FORESTALLED BY OTHER INTERESTED POWERS

(By Duncan Sandys, M.P.)

EARLY this morning detachments of German troops crossed the Austrian border. . . . No resistance was offered. . . . The German soldiers were greeted by cheering crowds.

This is what we shall read in our evening papers on our way back from work one day next year unless the statesmen of Europe can learn to look ahead.
Many of us for some time past urged that the demilitarisation of the Rhineland could not be indefinitely maintained, and that the time had come to remove the remaining restrictions upon German sovereignty.
It was invariably argued in reply that this was a trump-card which must be reserved as a bargaining counter to obtain some important concessions in the future.

Afraid To Lead Trumps
Our present embarrassments are due to our having committed the old mistake of being
afraid to lead trumps.

The Rhineland question is but the centre link in an unbreakable chain of German problems created by the Treaty of Versailles. The present crisis, like its predecessors—Reparations and German Rearmament
—has overtaken the Governments of the ex-Allied Powers before they had made up their minds how to deal with it.
Events have forced their hands,
and though the settlement
which is being wrung from them is essentially a wise and a realist one, the manner of its achievement can hardly be calculated to enhance the authority of International Law.

We are faced with the dual problem of showing the world that the Law of Nations cannot be broken with impunity and at the same time of not precipitating a war for the sake of reimposing treaty restrictions which we recognise to have been ripe for revision. If we confine ourselves to the narrow scope of the present crisis,

it is clear that no wholly satisfactory solution is possible.
What is needed is a comprehensive European settlement to remove the outstanding causes of future friction.

Other Difficulties

A host of further difficulties are already looming up on the horizon. Austria, Memel, Danzig, the Corridor and the Colonies—each presents its special problem. The colonial question, for obvious geographical reasons, cannot force itself upon us overnight. On the other hand, the solution of these other problems cannot safely be delayed. If we persist in ignoring them they will,
one by one, beginning with Austria, solve themselves in the way we least desire.

Ever since the war Austria has been wrestling vainly with a multitude of economic difficulties resulting from the dis-memberment of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire. The conglomeration of races and territories under the Habsburg rule was not a mere dynastic coincidence. It was the political expression of a natural economic entity founded upon the community of complementary interests of the peoples of the Danube basin.

Incapable
With its tiny population of six millions, nearly two millions of which are concentrated in the great metropolis of Vienna,
cut off by artificial barriers
both from the industrial centres of Czechoslovakia and from the rich plains of Hungary, the little State which to-day carries on the name of Austria has been left quite incapable of independent economic life.

In 1931, to find a way out of her difficulties, Austria concluded a Customs Union with Germany. Her action, however, was declared illegal by a majority vote of the Hague Court.

It is delightful news to the millions of admirers of the world's singing sweethearts, Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy, that their next picture will be Vincent Youmans' musical romance from Broadway, "Great Day." Later on M.G.M. hope to negotiate with Paramount for the rights of Victor Herbert's operettas.

Isabel Jewell has been signed by Columbia to appear with Ronald Colman in "The Last Horizon," which Frank Capra will direct.

Gary Cooper is considering signing a contract with Sam Goldwyn, the producer who gave him his first real chance in Hollywood.

It is most likely that Charles Laughton will be opposite Carole Lombard in the Paramount "Poor Sap," directed by Wesley Ruggles.

After Jackie Coogan and his fiancée Betty Grable finish their American vaudeville tour, they will likely appear in a British film.

CHAPLIN'S LATEST EFFORT, "MODERN TIMES"

ELISSA LANDI HEADS FINE CAST IN "WITHOUT REGRET"

KATHARINE HEPBURN, CARY GRANT AND BRIAN AHEARNE IN AMUSING COMEDY

By Diane

It seems to be the accepted fact that Charles Chaplin cannot do wrong—but perhaps that is the penalty one pays for fame and riches such as his. He delights in expending millions of dollars in the making of his films, and thinks nothing of devoting a couple of years—behind barred gates—to the production of each. It is quite natural that film-goers should expect the best in pictures; but to be very frank, I will candidly admit this film—his latest, "Modern Times"—to be definitely a big disappointment.

Like the great Garbo, Mr. Chaplin believes in secrecy, but this is his form of advertising his wares. I am at a loss to know why there was so much hidden during the making of this particular film, as most of the gags have been used by Mr. Chaplin in his pictures for the last 20 years. You will find very little that is new. The photography is below standard, the settings—with the exception of machinery—palpably studio-made, of the type used in the early days of films.

I went to see this comedy to laugh—to derive real entertainment. I found neither. Is Chaplin dated? Is it that his oft-repeated pantomime bores me? He still depends upon the gliding sliding walk, the simpering girlish attitudes, the Spring-like dance, to cull laughs. It is true that Chaplin has immortalised the baggy trousers, the derby, the cane, the big boots and the absurd little moustache; but—and here is a big "but"—he refuses to march with the times. He will not talk. It was the luckiest thing for him that he produced "City Lights" in 1931, before sound was perfected and when talkies were a novelty. In 1936 I am unable to accept a characterisation which depends upon exaggerated pantomime and I find myself out of tune with the old-fashioned slapstick and obsolete cinematic devices like sub-titles.

I think he could have produced a much funnier and much better picture than this scrappy, shapeless, draggy one. The story is disconnected and is told in a method that went out when talkies came in. It is slow-moving and there is far too much repetition of certain sequences. It is a typical Chaplin comedy, with the pathetic little hero we have known—and most of us loved—for 20 years. Charlie as factory hand, ship-builder, gaol-bird, night watchman, waiter and finally a singer; but the much-heralded song in half a dozen languages is a lot of gibberish, and depends upon exaggerated pantomime for success. This was his only concession to talking, but he allows some of the cast to do so, through the gramophone, radio and television sets.

Strange as it may seem I could not laugh at the tragic little factory hand tightening up bolts on a moving belt in a giant modern factory. I could not laugh at men caught in the cogs of wheels, I am past smiling at custard pies ornamenting faces. There is a scrappiness and lack of unity about this picture that one has not hitherto associated with a Chaplin release.

I recall with joy "Shoulder Arms," "A Dog's Life," "The Kid," "The Pilgrim," "The Gold Rush," "The Circus"—just to mention a few, when Chaplin made himself an institution and the richest man in films. "City Lights" gave us a pathetic story and also allowed a few members of the cast, including Virginia Cherrill, to give unforgettable performances. Now part of the lime-light is shared by Miss Paulette Goddard, but she has little to do. She has no chance to show off her good looks, but merely romps through as the personification of youth and vitality. Men who were with Chaplin in the old Keystone days appear in "bits," but one can hardly say any of them count for much.

This film is undoubtedly the office the world over. People of all nations will crowd to see it once—provided his myriads of admirers still favour his now-dated characterisation. Personally I think if you want to laugh you will have to depend upon the Marx Brothers, Harold Lloyd, Laurel and Hardy, Wheeler and Woolsey and Joe E. Brown for it. Why? because they have moved with "modern times." What the reaction upon millions of cinema-goers may be remains to be seen. The high-brow critic will tell you that Chaplin's film expresses a revolt against Capitalism, a revolt against mechanism. It matters not to me what the high-brow critic says. I go to a film for entertainment. The art of pantomime went out as far as I am concerned when sound revolutionised the screen. A little boy's remark at the opening of this particular film in Hollywood rather aptly sums up how I feel. "I've had a heck of a time. Chaplin can't talk, and I can't read." (King's).

" Sylvia Scarlett "

This is good entertainment and gives Katharine Hepburn, Brian Ahearne and Cary Grant something that is merry and different from anything else they have played on the screen. Most people think Cary Grant gives the best performance of his career.

Margaret Lindsay has the leading feminine role in Warner Bros. "Personal Maid's Secret," which is now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

as the Cockney crook. Miss Hepburn appears most of the time with a boy's cropped head, but at the finish is enabled to be the graceful Kate so loved by film-goers the world over.

She assumes male attire to help her father (Edmund Gwenn) to get from France to England. On the trip they meet a young crook (Cary Grant) and enter into partnership. The father marries an honest servant girl (Dennie Moore) and the four "go straight," touring the countryside as a barn-storming theatrical troupe. Romance is found when they meet artist Brian Ahearne and his fiancée (Princess Natalie Paley); but it is a shame to spoil your pleasure by telling too much. Go and see this amusing film; even if you think the Cosmo Hamilton story improbable you will have your enjoyment in watching a really excellent cast. (Alhambra).

"The Garden Murder Case"

This is M.G.M.'s latest of the "Philo Vance" series, starring Edmund Lowe and Virginia Bruce, with able assistance from Benita Hume, Douglas Walton, Nat Pendleton, H. B. Warner, Grant Mitchell, Jessie Ralph, Etienne Girardot and others.

Most of us are well acquainted with this famous detective who rivals Sherlock Holmes in literary history, and the van Dine novels are among the best sellers, both for a reading public and film-goers. This particular story concerns three murders, and a black cat holds the key to the mystery. Hero detective is subjected to great peril in unravelling the mysteries, but for the first time in his life he also falls in love—a greater peril, he considers, than his hair-breadth escapes from death. No more now, but this promises to be among the most exciting of the series, and gives the cast every chance to make good. (King's).

The once-great film actress, after making triumphs on the stage, has taken a test for the talkies. Nazimova hopes to be back with Paramount after an absence of 12 years.

Allan Jones has been definitely chosen as the leading man for the next Eleanor Powell release, "Shove Off."

Douglas Fairbanks Jr. only went to Hollywood on a business trip, but he was given a grand time by all his old friends.

Bert Wheeler has been divorced by his wife Bernice, after many years of living apart.

Marjorie Lane, who "doubled" in the singing for Eleanor Powell in "Broadway Melody of 1936," is likely to marry that promising actor Brian Donlevy, and Irene Hervey, (now that Janet Gaynor has looked upon her new leading man, Robert Taylor, with favour), seems keen to be seen with handsome singer Allan Jones. It is hard to keep track of who is engaged to whom in Hollywood.

P. I. SUGAR MAGNATE IN COLONY

Enjoyable Holiday In Japan

SUGAR EXPORT ANXIETIES IN ISLANDS

Among the passengers who arrived in the Colony this morning from the North was Mr. Rafael Alunan, President of the Philippine Sugar Association and former Secretary of the Philippine Treasury, who, together with his wife and six children, will spend a fortnight's holiday here before returning to the Islands.

Interviewed, Mr. Alunan said that he and his family had spent their first long holiday in Japan, although they had frequently passed through on the way to America.

The Japanese were very cordial to him and his family and although several attempts were made to obtain his views on the Japanese-Philippine situation, he always evaded any such interviews as he had left politics behind and was then a business man on holiday. He stated that while he was in Japan and when conversing with several prominent Japanese business magnates, he never had occasion to notice any unfriendliness which might have been caused by recent events in the Islands.

Mr. Alunan said that the newly formed Senate of the Philippine Islands were working shoulder to shoulder and were very optimistic regarding the success of the new Commonwealth, adding that the Filipinos were very lucky to have a man like the Manuel Quezon at the helm.

Mr. Alunan said that his present worry, if he could term it a worry, was their sugar export to America. At present they were selling all their sugar to the United States, but when their experimental Commonwealth had succeeded, as they all hope it will, there would probably be tariff walls and such like obstacles to trade. He said he felt sure that the President of the United States would call a conference between the responsible parties next autumn.

Mr. Alunan politely declined to discuss the question of a possible protectorate of the Philippine Islands under the United States Government, and stated that any of his ideas or statements might be misconstrued by persons in the Islands and outside, because of his close relationship with the President of the Islands.

THREE YEARS IN ARCTIC

Cambridge Graduates Expedition

A group of Cambridge graduates recently sailed from Southampton on an expedition to the Canadian Arctic. They will be away three and a half years, in the course of which they will have communication with the outside world only two or three times.

The chief object of the expedition is to elucidate the origin of the Eskimo by excavating ancient camp sites, which Mr. Thomas Manning, the leader, has located recently. They will also explore the unknown west coast of Baffin Island, the longest piece of uncharted coast line in the Northern Hemisphere.

3,500 Miles In Open Boat
The members of the expedition are Mr. G. W. Rowley, Mr. R. J. O. Bray, Mr. Baird and Mr. Pilkington. They will travel at least 3,500 miles in an open 30ft whale boat, the only type of craft which can be used in these shallow and often ice-bound waters.

Dog teams will be used for the inland travel over some 8,000 to 12,000 miles, most of which will be covered in winter, as in the warmer months vast areas become mere marshes and mudfields.

Learning Use Of Dog Whip
A member of the expedition said that most of the part would have to spend this summer learning to wield the long whips with which the dog teams are driven.

"These animals," he added, "will be our only help. We have discarded the usual practice of taking Eskimo guides and porters. We will build our own igloos (snow huts). Each summer food will be delivered at four points by the Hudson's Bay Company's

CAR DRIVER IN TROUBLE

Sequel To Garden Road Accident

Stanley Lee, of "On Low," Conduit Road, driver of private car No. 2975, was this morning summoned before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy with driving his car without due care and caution on April 15 near Garden Road.

Mr. P. Hodgson, for the defendant, said that a civil case was pending between his client and another party involved in the accident. Defendant was alleged to have run into another car, but only if his driving was a danger to the public should the case be taken up by the Police.

Inspector Alexander said that Inspector Logan was at the bottom of Garden Road that day and saw a taxi forced to draw up, as the signal was against him. Defendant's car, which was some distance behind, then came up and hit the taxi twice.

Mr. Hodgson contended that the taxi had stopped suddenly and that his client could not pull up quickly enough.

The summons was adjourned for a week.

DIRECTOR SHOT IN HOTEL

Man Who Broke A German Attack

NOTE LEFT FOR WIFE

"If anything happens to me it is not your fault—just stress of business, more than I can stand."

This note, written to his wife by Mr. James Walter Melhuish, M.C., of Kidderminster, was read by Mr. Ingleby Oddie at a Paddington inquest last month. Mr. Melhuish was found shot in an hotel in the West End of London.

A verdict of suicide while of unsound mind was recorded. Mr. Alexis Jacob, of Highbury Hill, N., a co-director with Mr. Melhuish in F. R. Simpson and Co. (Steel Works), of Oldbury, Birmingham, stated that Mr. Melhuish was in receipt of a salary of £1,200 a year.

Under Pressure
Coroner: Had he been overworked lately?—He had been rather under pressure.

Mr. Jacob said that when he left Birmingham to attend a board meeting in London, Mr. Melhuish complained of feeling queer in his head; he "kind of lost himself."

Mr. Jacob added that Mr. Melhuish joined the Worcestershire Regiment early in the war, and on one occasion in France he was instrumental with his company in breaking up a German attack. He was in the battle of the Somme. He lay between life and death for weeks, and was subsequently deaf in one ear. He was for a time an observer in the R.F.C., and left with the rank of captain.

No Trouble
He was in no trouble, financial or otherwise, and his domestic life was very happy, said Mr. Jacob. "He was a splendid, honourable, upright man."

Dr. Fairlie, police surgeon, stated that Mr. Melhuish had middle-car disease—which would cause headaches in close proximity to where he was wounded during the war. He shot himself in the head with an automatic pistol.

Recording his verdict, Mr. Oddie said that the man's mental distress might have been in some way the result of the old war wound.

LOCAL BROADCASTING

The actual hours of transmission from ZEW during April totalled 265.75, of which 174 were devoted to European programmes and 91.75 to Chinese programmes, the respective percentages for the month being 65.48 and 34.52. In addition 13 European and Chinese programmes were broadcast by ZEK. Altogether 323 new licences were issued during the month and 47 licences were renewed.

ships. Otherwise we will depend entirely on the seals and will cease we will shoot."

ALLEGED THEFT OF CHEMICALS

TWO ACCUSED MEN REMANDED

BAIL OF $500 EACH

Tam Fook, a storekeeper, and Lee Hau, an accountant, both employed at Imperial Chemical Industries (China) Limited's Go-down at Great George Street, again appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy, charged in connection with the theft of 50 bags of sulphate of ammonia on May 2.

Mr. H. J. Armstrong appeared for the complainant firm, while Mr. F. E. Nash appeared for the first defendant and Mr. J. T. Prior for the second defendant.

The case was formally remanded for a week, bail being allowed the defendants at $500 each.

After the case Mr. H. J. Armstrong asked His Worship to give some indication of the time solicitors should attend the Court in the mornings. Mr. Nash, he said, had been in Court before 10 o'clock, while His Worship was busy in Chambers with the Juvenile Court.

Mr. W. Schofield said that he had been sitting in the Juvenile Court for nearly 18 months and rarely came to the big Court till 10.30, and sometimes later.

He agreed with Mr. Armstrong that solicitors who came up about 11 o'clock would be in time.

This morning Mr. W. Schofield sat in the big Court until about 10.45.

RADIO HOCKEY CHAMPIONS

WALK-OVER FROM C.B.A.

Thanks to a walk-over conceded to them by the C.B.A., the winners of the "B" Division of the Manak Hockey Tournament, the Radio Sports Club are undisputed champions of the 1935-6 competition.

The China Mail was told by a member of the C.B.A. team that they did not think it was right to expect a Club to turn out for hockey in the summer, and it was because of this that the C.B.A. are unable to field a team, thus forcing them to concede the points in the play-off for the title.

Only one game now remains to be played, and that is the Champions v Rest fixture. The date for this game will be announced in due course.

NEW £100,000 BRIDGE

Improving London Dock Approaches

ROAD TRAFFIC DELAY TO BE AVOIDED

A further step is to be made in the scheme for improving the approaches to London Docks. The Ministry of Transport has made a grant from the Road Fund towards the cost of a new bridge over the entrance to Millwall Dock, in West Ferry-road, Poplar.

The work, which is to be carried out by the London County Council, will cost £102,500. West Ferry-road is at present carried over the dock entrance by a swing bridge, the normal load on which is restricted to 18 tons.

This bridge spans the entrance lock. When vessels are passing through it has to be kept open, causing considerable delay to road traffic.

Bascule Type

The new structure, which will be of the bascule type, will accommodate a 25ft carriageway and two footpaths. This will remove the loading restriction, which has long hampered the heavy industries of the Millwall district.

To reduce the time during which the bridge will have to be opened for shipping, a site has been chosen on the east side of the existing bridge clear of the entrance lock.

The selection of this site will necessitate the construction of curved approaches, but these will have a width of 50ft to allow long loads to pass in safety.

Today's Complete Short Story

Over And Done With

By Marjorie Warby

"I'm awfully sorry, Charles, but I can't marry you," said Jill, looking nervously into the handsome, unimaginative face of the man sitting opposite.

"What on earth do you mean?" exploded Charles. "I can't marry you after all I'm so sorry." Tentatively she held out her platinum ring with the one magnificent diamond.

Charles ignored it. "What's wrong?"

"Nothing."

"What have I done?" persisted Charles, flushed and angry. "Hang it, Jill—this is rather a facer!"

"I know, I'm frightfully sorry. I feel terribly mean. It isn't anything you've looked, or done, or said, or—anything. Please don't mind about it too much."

"But I do mind," retorted the man. "I mind very much indeed. Nice fool I shall look! Just when I was going to sign the contract for buying the house."

"I know. That's what made me screw up my courage to break it off."

"But what have I done?"

"Oh, Charles, I keep telling you it isn't anything you've done! It's just me. My feeling have changed."

"You were keen enough six months ago."

Jill made a little helpless gesture with her hands.

"I can't help it. I'm sorry."

"Sorry! Is there anyone else?"

"No—oh, no!"

"But there soon will be," observed Charles gloomily. "I'll be the third chap you've jilted in as many years. You're evidently making a hobby of it."

THRIFTY BRITONS

The balance due to 10,000,000 depositors in the Post Office Savings Bank is approximately $402,000,000, according to a statement issued last month.

In addition, $169,000,000 of Government stock is held through the bank by depositors and others.

Deposits in January and February showed increases of about 500,000 in numbers and $2,500,000 in amount, compared with those months last year.

Average Of £4/10s.

The average deposit to date this year is £4 9s. 8d., compared with £4 11s. 6d. for the whole of 1935 and £4 7s. 9d. for 1934.

Stamp savings books for saving by 6d. stamps were responsible for $640,000 in deposits or savings certificate purchases last year, compared with $245,000 in 1934.

Sales of home safes, including the special Jubilee safe, reached the record total of 440,000 last year, over $1,000,000 being deposited in them.

5 NEW PLANES EVERY DAY

Three For Royal Air Force

PRODUCTION SPEEDED UP

During the next 12 months the British aircraft industry will be producing, on an average, five new aeroplanes every working day.

Of these, at least three will be Royal Air Force machines, and two commercial or civil. These are minimum estimates, and will probably be exceeded.

The number of engines will be much greater, for many of the machines have two or more engines. The figures given do not include the "Flying Flea," or "aerial scooter" class, many of which are being made privately. During the summer, certain new high-performance R.A.F. types, now undergoing tests, will be in Jill's small face flushed. "Please don't think too badly of me, Charles dear. Honestly, I'm not a heartless flirt."

"Pretty good imitation of one," growled Charles. "I don't say you weren't justified in throwing over that wild fool, Bill Lorimer—caught him at a restaurant with a lovely lady, didn't you, when he'd told you he'd be working late? Well, you'd some reason for chucking that chap."

"We'll leave Bill Lorimer out of it, if you don't mind."

"But Arthur Stobart—you'd nothing against him, so far as I've heard. And you've nothing against me, therefore I'm just not going to listen to this nonsense."

TO-MORROW'S STORY

To-morrow's story will be "Out Of The Depths," by Gloria M. Sims.

A little natural windiness because the wedding day's drawing near. That's all that's wrong with you, my dear. Get your hat and we'll breeze along to the house agent's together."

Jill stood her ground.

"Charles, I'm serious about this. I'm not going to marry you."

Charles blustered. Said he refused to release her. He was determined to sign the contract for the house.

"I won't be thrown over. Understand that? You can't play fast and loose with me!"

"Are you mad? Do you want a house on your hands when you aren't going to be married?"

"But what have I done?" demanded Charles for the third time.

Jill gritted her teeth and clenched her hands. Said in a low, sibilant tone:

"Charles, if you ask me that again I shall scream. I'm not enjoying this interview any more than you. Can't you understand—and go?"

"I refuse to leave this house until I am given a more adequate reason for your unwarrantable behaviour."

Jill sighed. "I wanted to spare your feelings, but if you must have it—you bore me to distraction."

He stiffened. Jill's words were a knock-out blow to his vanity, which was considerable. Jill—to say that to him! Jill, who wasn't even pretty when one came to consider her dispassionately, apart from that queer charm of hers. Jill, who, when all was said and done, was only the daughter of a retired dairyman, in spite of her streamlining, her delicate hands and feet.

Charles Henderson-Bagshot was one of the most eligible bachelors in the county town of Upweald. Good-looking, well-to-do, and—so Charles had always believed—excellent company. For this chit of a girl, socially a nobody, to dare to say that he bored her to distraction! Charles' love for her died on the spot.

He picked up the ring which had lain on the table between them. She needn't think he would tell her to keep it, as that fool Lorimer had done. Not an expensive ring like that—why it was insured for fifty pounds. He pocketed the jewel and stood up.

full production.

Expansion Scheme

The Two-Year expansion scheme, which was to bring the first line strength of the R.A.F. up to about 2,000 aeroplanes by the end of March, 1937, will be fulfilled. The newer programme, which is to bring the total to about 2,450, will not be completed for another year.

During the four years of the war the industry produced 55,093 aeroplanes and 41,024 aero engines. No doubt this rate could be surpassed, if necessary, despite the fact that modern machines are more complicated than those of the war period, of great weight, and much higher quality. The engine power has increased on an average five-fold per machine.

Timely Arrival Of Askaris At French Legation

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER WOMAN REPORTER MISSING

Addis Ababa, To-day. A state of martial law has been proclaimed here and a martial court has been established to deal promptly with plunderers and to enforce respect for the law. This is regarded as an essential step towards the restoration of normal life and conditions.

The last case of mob action was declared to have been an attack on the French Legation towards midnight on Tuesday, when, just as the defenders of the Legation building were feeling hard pressed, a section of Askaris appeared from behind the attackers and put the mob to flight with machine-gun fire.

The French Legation informed the Italian command that a company of French Senegalese had been despatched to Addis Ababa from Djibouti, but on arrival at the capital's railway station they will be sent back again by the next train.

Italian Legation Unscathed General Badoglio has taken up Headquarters in the Italian Legation which, strange to say, has not been plundered.

The United States Legation announced that the only person belonging to the American colony that is missing is a newspaper reporter, Miss Eleanor Meade, who, however, might have boarded the last train to Djibouti before the plundering began.

General Graziani occupied Jijiga on Wednesday and is hastening on to Harrar, 30 miles away, expecting to complete the distance in two days.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Over And Done With

Jill's grey eyes ran over him reflectively, sizing up the man she was about to renounce.

Charles was big, like his mother. A trifle heavy for his years; would, probably, be fat at forty. He patronised an excellent tailor, was always faultlessly turned out; but now, regarding him with eyes no longer out of focus through emotional disturbances, Jill realised with a little shudder that Charles was smug.

Yes, quite definitely smug! How could she have ever contemplated him as a husband?

Charles picked up his hat, his stick, his gloves, and turned for a last word.

"If I go now, believe me I'll never come back. You can't play fast and loose with a Bagshot."

Jill assured him that she had no desire to play fast and loose with anyone. Her heart smote her when she saw how demoralised he was. She went close, put one long-fingered hand on his tweed coat sleeve. Said in that lilting, seductive voice of hers:

"Charles, dear, please believe me when I say I am sorry."

He flung off her placating hand, marched into the small lounge hall, and banged the front door behind him with a violence that made the bungalow quiver.

The daily girl poked a surprised countenance round the edge of the kitchen door.

"Bin rowin'," she said briefly to the cat.

Jill's mother was sitting quietly in the back garden knitting, blissfully unconscious of the drama going on indoors. She was very fond of knitting, but not very good at it.

At present she was at work on little shoes for her elder daughter's baby. She had already made quite a lot, but they had a most tiresome habit of turning out different sizes, and she was obliged to start over again.

There was quite a regiment of odd little shoes put away in a drawer, none of them pairing, but Mrs. Darling had not yet abandoned hope of success.

She glanced up abstractedly as her daughter appeared.

"Thank goodness that's over," observed Jill, flopping into an orange deck-chair with a sigh.

"What's over?" Her mother's attention was only partially distracted from her precious knitting.

"Two plain, two purl—"

"I'm free," said Jill.

"Free?" Vaguely Mrs. Darling raised eyes as grey as Jill's own.

The girl held out her left hand, bare of the handsome stone that had glittered there for the last six months.

"Looks funny without it, doesn't it?" continued Jill, looking at her third finger. "I feel quite nude."

Mrs. Darling dropped the baby shoe in consternation.

"My dear—not again!"

Jill nodded.

"Um! Couldn't help it, mumsie. I'd have murdered poor Charles if I'd gone on."

Mrs. Darling looked shattered.

"You've ruined my Saturday afternoon. I so enjoy Saturday afternoons in the garden, with you home from the office and everything. Jill, what made you do it? Have you quarrelled?"

"Oh, no. Charles came to take me along to watch him sign the contract for the house. And suddenly I knew I couldn't. It's been coming on quite a time, of course—this cooling off Charles. At first he seemed so restful after Bill's wild enthusiasms and Arthur's tenseness. I liked his calm, pedantic manner, his assured position in the world. I felt I'd be secure with Charles. Please, mumsie, try to understand."

Jill clasped slim hands round hunched up knees and gazed unseeingly at the hollyhock border.

"And then, gradually, I began to wake up. Just as if I'd been doped, and the drug was wearing off. Charles started to get on my nerves. His mannerisms—even his back view at tennis when standing up at the net. He always would bend and look ridiculous. Oh, and heaps of tiny silly things that count terribly if you're going to marry a man. And then his conversation irritated me, he was always so smug."

Mrs. Darling nodded.

"A trifle, perhaps. But a most estimable fellow, and so well-off."

"Now, mumsie—don't be mercenary."

TALKIE TALKS

"Miss Pacific Fleet"

Joan Blondell and Glenda Farrell again cast as two cute and lovely "gold-diggers." This is just another of their boisterous farces about chorus girls out for a good time. This time there is a beauty contest, a kidnapping, a fight and a motor-boat chase, all of which provide a succession of bread comedy incidents.

There are the usual wisecracks and Hugh Herbert winning laughs by his semi-alcoholic pomposity and general inanity. Allen Jenkins as the "dumb" sailor, Warren Hull (singing some specially-composed songs charmingly), Marie Wilson, Guinn Williams, Eddie Acuff, Minna Gombell and others, by their clever and enthusiastic team-work, put over this nonsense slickly and uproariously.

The performances from the two stars are as full of vitality as ever, making one forget the exaggerations. Roy Enwright makes the most of the bright dialogue and keeps the film going at the fastest pace with the machine-gun-like precision expected from a Warner Brothers release. Well up to standard, if you like this type of picture. (Queen's).

The Majestic

A strong drama of the sea is "Dangerous Waters," with hero Jack Holt foiling all attempts to wreck his ship for the insurance. Grace Bradley and Robert Armstrong form the triangle and old-timer Charlie Murray supplies the laughs.

This is followed by a thrilling spectacular film, "Les Misérables," wherein Charles Laughton scores another hit as the Gendarme, and Fredric March, Rochelle Hudson, John Beal, Frances Drake and thousands of extras help to provide excitement and first-rate entertainment, even if of the sordid type. Worth seeing.

The film that ranks highest for photography, incidental music, direction and acting in 1935 was "The Informer," starring Victor McLaglen, and giving this really great actor the best chance of his long film career. This story of the Irish Rebellion is one that can be seen again and again, and yet each time find it as great and engrossing. John Ford is responsible for the perfect direction, and the finest cast help the star to make it a picture one can never forget. (Majestic).

The Star, Kowloon

Du Maurier's ethereal play "Peter Ibbetson" gives lovely Anne Harding and that most versatile of young actors, Gary Cooper, splendid chances for the dramatic. There is hardly a relief from tragedy in the whole picture, but alone for the work of the two stars this is one that can be highly recommended. The two children Virginia Weidler and Dickie Moore do their little "bit" expertly and John Halliday is the type of actor from whom we always receive the best.

This is followed by Dick Powell and Joan Blondell in "Broadway Gondolier." Catchy music and a

Margaret Lindsay, Warren Hull and little Ronnie Cospy are in the Warner Bros. production, "Personal Maid's Secrets," which is now being shown at the Queen's Theatre.

Joan Blondell, Hugh Herbert and Glenda Farrell are featured in the Warner Bros. production, "Miss Pacific Fleet," which will be shown at the Queen's Theatre on Sunday.

Shirley Temple plays the role of a sea-waif in her greatest screen role in "Captain January," which is coming to the King's and Alhambra Theatres soon.

new angle to an oft-told story put this over in first-rate style. Should be seen.

Pette Davis and Ian Hunter are splendid in "The Girl From 10th Avenue," even though the material is hardly worthy of such talent. At least there is entertainment, so that is the main thing to consider. (Star).

Oriental

"Mary Burns, Fugitive," with Sylvia Sydney, Melvyn Douglas, and newcomer Alan Baxter in strong drama. Some of the situations are hard to believe, but the acting compensates for the incredible story. Brian Donlevy again shines in a "bit."

"The Red Rose" starring Margaret Sullivan, Walter Connolly, Randolph Scott and many more in a drama of the Southern war is a picture to be seen. Miss Sullivan makes a most sympathetic heroine and the story is engrossing from the start to the finish.

"Four Hours to Kill" is one of the best dramas I have seen for a long while. It gives Richard Barthelmess a first-rate acting part, and the whole big cast, a specially long one, contribute to an evening wisely spent. Here is a film I specially recommend if you are out for thrills, excitement and first-rate acting. (Oriental). —DIANE.

Short Shots

Many of the film artist have been seriously down with the "flu," but with care and rest from studio work most of them, including Leslie Howard, Jean Harlow and Maureen O'Sullivan, are convalescing.

Mary Ellis has been divorced from her English actor-husband, Basil Sydney. He was once the husband of Doris "Romance" Kean. Has been appearing with big success in the new Douglas Fairbanks Jr. film, "An Amateur Gentleman."

Harriet Hilliard, who was such a hit in "Follow the Fleet," will be starred in her next R.K.O. release, and Jack Oakie, Joe Penner and Herbert Marshall have all been borrowed from Paramount to add to the cast.

Divorced pairs co-starring is the latest hit in the film colony. Now that Margaret Sullivan and Henry Fonda did it successfully in "The Moon's our Home" Carole Lombard and ex-husband William Powell will do it for Universal.—DIANE.

"I'm not really, Jill. I'm simply practical. We have to think of your future. Since father died, there hasn't been much money, and a trail of broken engagements won't improve your chances of a good marriage. I don't think what Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot will say. For you to throw over her only son—your reputation will be in shreds!"

Jill laughed.

"It is now. So why worry? Ever since I stayed out half the night with Bill!"

"Hush, child. You shouldn't talk like that. Such statements are open to misconstruction. You couldn't help getting stranded without petrol late at night."

"I wonder how many charitable people in this delightful town gave us the benefit of the doubt?"

Everyone who really knew Bill returned Mrs. Darling with unexpected spirit. "He was such a nice boy!"

Her daughter's lips curled.

"You surprise me, mother, considering the way he behaved later on."

"I never could understand that business," Mr. Darling took up her baby shoe again. "You were both young and fiery, quick to take offence. I wonder where Bill is now?"

"I neither know nor care," returned Jill with vigour. "He was a cad. I'm beginning to have doubts myself, now, as to that running out of petrol being an accident."

"Jill! You know you don't mean that."

"A man," declared the girl, her elfin face hard, "who could behave as Bill did would be capable of anything."

"Well, well," observed her mother peaceably, "we were talking of Charles, were we not? The episode of Bill is over and done with."

"Yes," echoed Jill, "over and done with."

She still gazed at the hollyhocks. Bees were busy there, hovering round each separate flower, lingering awhile to sip the honey, then passing on. Just like Bill Lormer, who had passed on to a silver-gilt blonde nearly two years ago.

Jill shoved an orange pillow behind her silky, dark curls. Produced cigarettes. How she hated blonde women, and above all, how she hated Bill Lormer!

Mrs. Darling was speaking again, half to herself.

"When I think of Helen," she remarked, alluding to her elder daughter, "I cannot understand why you are so restless and difficult to please. Helen was never any trouble. She left school, worked for eighteen months in a bank, married the accountant, and had a baby within the year. All so easily and naturally, without any bother."

"Helen is a dear, but horribly orthodox!"

"You're a dear, too. But horribly unorthodox. Frankly, Jill, I'm worried about you. About your future. I thought you were comfortably settled. What's to become of you if you go on like this?"

"I shall be an old maid. A terrifically smart, up-to-the-minute old maid," said Jill comfortably.

"And I'll collect elephants. Model ones, of course. Ebony and ivory and cornelian and jade. And I'll go to the ends of the earth hunting for them in fascinating curio shops in the mystic East."

"And where's the money coming from?"

"Echo answers where," agreed Jill.

The daily girl came out into the garden looking scared.

"Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot to see you, mum," she said.

"Oh, dear!" Mrs. Darling dropped several stitches. "Where is she, Connie?"

"I put her in the sitting-room, mum, same as you told me to do with callers."

"Yes—quite right, Connie. I'll come," Mrs. Darling rose unhappily, looked at her daughter with reproach. "Now see what you've let me in for! I'm doomed for a bad quarter of an hour through your naughtiness. How I wish they wouldn't come to me. I shall never forget the way Arthur stamped up and down imploring me to persuade you to take him back."

She trailed off disconsolately, a ball of wool unravelling itself in her wake.

"Poor little mumsie. It's a shame," said Jill, and sank deeper into her deck-chair trying to feel contrite. But it was such a relief to be no longer engaged to Charles.

Mrs. Darling and Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot faced each other in the pretty chintzy sitting-room. Charles' mother was a large, upholstered-looking lady dressed in purple maroon, her ample bosom decorated with a long gold chain, a diamond brooch and a row of buttons.

She sat very straight in her chair and seemed to tower over Mrs. Darling, who felt rather like a small brown hen in the presence of a particularly fearsome hawk. She decided to agree with everything the visitor said. It was the pleasantest way to deal with such situations.

Charles' mother drew a quivering breath and said in her most committee-meeting voice:

"Mrs. Darling, your daughter has behaved disgracefully."

"Yes," agreed Jill's mother, "hasn't she?"

Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot looked taken aback. This unexpected rejoinder was disconcerting. She had anticipated a warm defence of the girl's conduct from the mother. Had come, indeed, well primed with several biting, well-timed phrases with which to annihilate this widow of a retired dairyman. Trades-people merely. Whereas the Henderson-Bagshots had been civil service for generations.

Yet here was this nondescript little woman regarding her deprecatingly, agreeing with her that Jill's behaviour had been monstrous. Saying:

"I'm so sorry. I am indeed. I'm very fond of Charles. I'm sure he would have made Jill an excellent husband. Perhaps she will change her mind, if we give her time."

"No girl shall play with the affections of my son," declared his mother majestically. "Jill must abide by her decision. Charles would never take her back after this."

"Poor fellow—I hope he isn't too heart-broken."

"Oh, not at all. In fact, if you'll excuse my bluntness, Mrs. Darling, I think he's well out of it. I came merely to offer you a little advice. As one mother to another. Get Jill away. Her name will be mud in Upweald after this. No decent man will look at her again. Even in these advanced days, men like the girls they marry to be—er—chaste."

"Jill is a good girl," Mrs. Darling said with simple dignity. "The scandal-mongers can say what they like. There's nothing bad in my daughter. She's sincere in her attachments whilst they last. And she isn't fast."

"Really?" Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot raised plucked eyebrows superciliously. "Three broken engagements, and you say that she's sincere, and that she isn't fast? If that's so, then I think, Mrs. Darling—I honestly think—if you'll forgive my saying so—that I'd have her medically examined, if I were you."

"Medically examined? But Jill is radiant! She's never been ill in her life."

Charles' mother gathered luxurious furs about her plump shoulders.

"Physically fit, no doubt. But since she's so—er—eccentric in her behaviour where men are concerned, I really think I'd have her psycho-analysed. I do indeed. May be there's a little weakness—mentally. Or some submerged inhibition. Good-afternoon." And, rising regally, Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot sailed away from the small bungalow she had always despised. Out of sight and out of the life of Mrs. Darling.

Jill was amusing a ginger cat with her mother's ball of wool when Mrs. Darling returned.

"Charles' mother thinks you can't be all there, dear. To throw over three men, and one her own son."

Jill laughed.

"I've escaped a terror of a mother-in-law, anyway."

"All the same," mused Mrs. Darling, sitting down, "there may be something in what that woman says about getting Jill away. I'll see what Helen thinks about it."

Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot's amiable suggestion that Jill's name would be mud in the district was not without foundation. Particularly since that lady herself took an active part in the throwing thereof. She was a leading light in the small town, and the less brave of Jill's friends felt it policy to take the side of strength rather than justice, since it was within the power of Mrs. Henderson-Bagshot to make things exceedingly unpleasant for those who came under her displeasure.

Jill found herself, during the next few weeks, quietly but unmistakably "dropped."

Tennis parties, swimming parties, dances and what not were organised without her. Girls who had been her friends ceased to know her. For here was Charles—the most eligible bachelor in Upweald—free again, and was there not a chance for them if they sided with the Henderson-Bagshots?

Jill held her pointed chin high, and declared her indifference.

Mrs. Darling went up to London to see Helen about it.

Helen was dark and slender and attractive, like Jill, with the same seductive low voice. But she was less impulsive than Jill. Less quick-tempered. When she felt angry Helen never spoke until she'd counted ten. It made all the difference, saved many a hurtful biting phrase from being uttered. Perhaps if Jill had counted ten when she'd faced Bill Lormer with the silver-gilt blonde this story would never have been written.

Helen listened gravely to her mother's tale. Agreed that Jill had better come away.

"I'll ask Harry if he knows anyone who requires a typist. She could live with us for a bit until she'd found her feet."

"I can't make out why Jill doesn't settle down," sighed Mrs. Darling.

"I can," said Helen, and added something that caused Mrs. Darling to open her grey eyes wide.

"Oh, no, dear. I'm sure you're mistaken. That's all over and done with."

"They were a couple of young idiots. They were just made for each other. I don't think Jill's ever forgotten."

"She simply loathes the very sound of his name."

"Exactly," laughed Helen.

Mrs. Darling went back to Upweald, and Helen spoke to her husband:

"Well, that is rather queer," said Harry. "Whom do you think I met to-day who's wanting a typist?"

The outcome of this was that before giving notice to the solicitor's office in Upweald, where she was employed, Jill journeyed to Town to interview the man who was needing a secretary.

It would be nice to get away for a bit, thought Jill, from a place where one was notorious, to a city where nobody knew anything about one, and cared less.

The office was at the top of a large block of buildings in Bishopsgate. The man she had to interview was a Mr. Grey. She was received by an office boy:

"This way, please. You're expected." Shown into a room where a very tall, rather loosely-built young man lounged at a large business-like desk.

Jill caught at the wall for support and breathed one word:

"Bill!"

"Ah, Jill, how are you? Quite nice to see you, after all this long time. How's things?"

"I thought you were abroad," she murmured, gazing at him as if she'd seen a ghost. "Where's Mr. Grey? Harry told me—"

"I arrived back from India last month, having successfully started a new agency in Bombay. Robert Gray is my partner. I've got on a bit since the old days."

"I'm glad. Did you see any elephants in Bombay? Amber, cornelian, ebony and jade? I rather thought of collecting—"

She pulled herself together, conscious of his curious gaze, fearful that maybe she was talking nonsense.

"Won't you sit down?" said Bill Lormer, and faced her across the desk.

His blue eyes were gay and mocking as they used to be, not as she has seen them last, when they'd been hard, and the colour of steel.

"So you want a job in the City, eh? Tired of working in the wilds of Upweald?"

"Upweald's tired of me would be nearer the truth."

"What? The attractive Jill Darling no longer topping the bill?"

"No longer anywhere on the bill," Jill grinned at him, determined to be as airy as he. "Too many followers allowed—and not enough stability."

Bill bowed his dark head.

"Ah—still breaking hearts, young woman. You bashed mine, back about pretty thoroughly two years ago, I don't mind admitting it."

"I"—indignantly. "And what did you do to mine?"

"Nothing, unfortunately, or you wouldn't have thrown me over so completely. However, that's all past history. It's jolly to see you again, now that time has healed the breach and we can be friends."

"Jill's impish smile crept out. "You are a fool, Bill."

"Yes," he agreed with unexpected gravity, "I believe I am, or have been." Then he cleared his throat, said with a change of manner: "What about testing your shorthand? Wasn't it a little weak? Take this down."

Pushing pencil and pad across, he began pacing the office as he started to dictate.

"Humph!" another loud clearing of the throat, then he plunged: "When a man says he hopes something will come of an interview with a young woman, he does not necessarily mean marriage, or even an affair. I knew a fellow once who was hopeful of pulling off a big business deal with a man over from America for a short visit. The bloke from America had a daughter. He asked her to take said daughter to a show and night-club. Hero had thought he'd be late at the office over the deal, and had told fiancee so. No time to get her and explain: she wasn't on the phone, anyway. As it happened, fiancee's brother-in-law took the girl out that evening with his wife for a birthday celebration of said wife. Fiancee saw apparently faithless lover—with beautiful blonde. Result—fellow got the deal, but lost his girl!"

Jill's pad and pencil fell unheeded to the floor. She sprang to her feet, her charming face crumpled piteously.

"Bill! Oh, Bill—why didn't you tell me? Oh, what a little beast I was. What a fool! Bill—"

She turned away.

He strode across the office, put forceful hands on her shoulders, and turned her round. "Jill, darling—without a capital D."

Mrs. Darling was delighted when she heard, but very surprised.

"Because, of course, I quite thought," she told the blissfully radiant Jill, "all that was over and done with."

CIVIL LIST BILL

Commons Pass Second Reading

LABOUR AMENDMENT REJECTED

London, To-day.

The House of Commons yesterday passed the second reading of the Civil List Bill and rejected by 205 votes to 95 a Labour amendment asking for the surrender of the Duchies of Lancaster and Cornwall in exchange for a fixed annual sum of money.

Major C. R. Attlee (Lab., Limehouse) agreed that the Duchies were administered well and generously, but they were in no way private estates. Their revenues fluctuated and were likely to involve a controversy, which the Sovereign should be placed above.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, agreed that the amendment could hardly be moved in terms less likely to give offence. Any fluctuations of income would be in the nature of the general movement throughout the country, and it would be an advantage that the Sovereign should personally feel some effects which were present in the minds of his subjects.—Reuter.

GREYHOUND AND ITS TAIL

Faster It went The
More It Curled

WOMAN BUYER WINS
$40 CLAIM

The curly tail of King's Folly, a coursing greyhound, was the subject of a $40 claim heard last month at Newcastle-on-Tyne County Court. It was declared that a tail that was not outstretched in action was a grave defect in a greyhound.

Mrs. Clara Gardiner Mitchell, of Winchill, Gloucestershire, who bought King's Folly from Mr. J. McKeown, of Newcastle, claimed repayment of the money, alleging breach of warranty. She won her case.

Dr. Charlesworth (for Mrs. Mitchell) contended that the dog was useless owing to its peculiarity of a curly tail. This prevented it from turning when coursing.

Never Uncurled
Mrs. Mitchell, giving evidence, said that Mr. McKeown told her in a letter that the dog uncurled its tail when running. Her experience was that it never uncurled its tail while running or walking about. "The faster it goes the more it curls," she added. "If I had known this I would never have bought it."
Mervyn James Hapgood, of Cirencester, said that when he slipped the dog last November it followed the hare, but failed to turn it. The dog tried to turn, but was unable to do so because of its tail, which curled over its back "like a clock spring."

The tail was the balancing part of a greyhound, and should be stretched straight behind the dog.

"No Good As A Pet"

"The dog is no use as a coursing greyhound," Hapgood added. "The only thing to do is to put it under the ground. It is no good as a pet, it would steal everything in the house. That is the nature of greyhounds."

Replying to Mr. J. Harvey Robson (for Mr. McKeown), Hapgood said that King's Folly's curly tail was a deformity, which was probably present at birth. He admitted that 30 years ago greyhounds had more curl in their tails. Now, when dogs were bred for speed, their tails were straighter.

Michael McKeown, a commission agent, of Albion-street, Newcastle, father of the defendant, and until the sale to Mrs. Mitchell, the dog's real owner, then gave evidence. He stated that the dog straightened his tail when running. He gave no warranty when selling, because the dog was only a pup.

Trainer's Evidence
Thomas Amos, head trainer at Gosforth Stadium, Newcastle, said that he had seen King's Folly galloping with its tail outstretched. Some grey-

The policy of large armaments for America was sharply criticised by Senator Gerald Nye, above, in the Senate yesterday, when he deprecated the fact that U.S. armaments annually gave the chance to the military dominance in Japan to point a finger at America.

IMPORTS INTO POLAND

Prohibited By Special
Decree

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL
Warsaw, To-day.

A semi-official news agency reports that the Cabinet Council has decided to publish a decree prohibiting the import of any goods into Poland, but adds that this prohibition constitutes a purely technical measure which does not in practice signify that the importation of all foreign goods into Poland is henceforth impossible.

The object of the decree is, so the agency continues, to create the means of controlling imports. Importers who want to import prohibited goods may obtain import licences within the existing scope of the quotas.—Trans-Ocean Service.

Mrs. Amy Mollison, who set out from Gravesend at 8.05 a.m. G.M.T. on Monday to break Lieutenant Rose's record for a flight to Capetown of 3 days 17 hours 38 minutes, reached Capetown yesterday afternoon at 2.31 p.m. G.M.T., beating Lt. Rose's time by 11 hours 12 minutes and recapturing the record for the England to the Cape flight, which she previously held.—British Wireless Service.

Agreement To Be Revised

London, To-day.

Mr. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Trade, announced yesterday that the British and Argentine Governments are exchanging notes whereby they will enable the existing trade agreement to terminate on July 1. In the meantime discussions are proceeding for the revision of the agreement.—Reuter's Bulletin Service.

MARCH IN GAS MASKS

Ambulance Men Give Demonstration

Wearing gas-masks and carrying stretchers, members of the Sheffield corps of the St. John Ambulance Brigade last month marched through the streets of that city. They were holding the first demonstration there to illustrate precautionary measures during air raids.

Specially-trained members of the brigade are shortly to start classes in Sheffield and South Yorkshire, at which the public will be taught the use of masks and other anti-gas precautions. Women will be specially urged to join the classes.

hounds had curly tails, but were never really good dogs.

Judge Thesiger, giving judgment for £40 and costs for Mrs. Mitchell, remarked that he was quite satisfied the dog had a tail which was never stretched in action. No one dealing in greyhounds would have bought it without the assurance that Mr. McKeown had given in the letter.

HITLER'S PEACE PROPOSALS

British Memorandum

COUCHED IN POLITE TERMS

"CHINA MAIL" SPECIAL

Berlin, To-day.

The British questions to Germany, for the purpose of clearing up some points of the German Government's Memorandum of March 7, 24 and 31, were handed in by the British Ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps, to the Foreign Minister, Baron von Neurath, yesterday.

The text of the note has not been published and it is understood that its publication is not intended for the time being. According to the Berliner Tageblatt the questionnaire deals with problems involved in the German peace proposal, but does not refer to the occupation of the Rhineland or to the transition period which, according to the German suggestions, should pass till the actual opening of negotiations for peace in Europe.

LORD HALIFAX'S MISSION
Paris: The British Lord Privy Seal, Lord Halifax, it is stated by the press here, will, after the meeting of the League Council, proceed to Berlin to open direct negotiations with the German Government on peace in Europe. It is claimed that the Quai d'Orsay has already officially been notified of the proposed visit to Berlin of Lord Halifax.—Trans-Ocean Service.

COMPLICATED DOCUMENT
Berlin: A high official of the Wilhelmstrasse told Reuter that the British memorandum on Herr Hitler's peace proposals was couched in polite terms but was a complicated document which needed thorough study.

Reuter was further informed that the text of the memorandum deals thoroughly with the German proposals to safeguard the peace of Europe without dealing with the question of a transitory period or the Rhineland problem.—Reuter.

HIGH COST OF STRIKERS

Denmark Counts The Cost

Copenhagen.—Drastic action is to be taken by the Government following the failure last month of negotiations to end the great labour stoppage, which had already cost Denmark about £2,280,000 since it began a month before. It was decided to introduce a bill in Parliament, which would Order the ending of the then lockout; and Prohibit all strikes and lock-outs.

The main object of the second clause was to avert the strike in the slaughter-houses threatened for this month. A stoppage of meat trade workers would have a serious effect upon Denmark's important export business with Britain.

AGRICULTURAL OPERATIONS

Lord Glanely Wins
Appeal

An appeal of special importance to breeders of thoroughbred horses has been decided by the Newmarket Assessment Committee.

The appellant was Lord Glanely, and the question for decision was whether the stud buildings on his stud farms at Exning, near Newmarket, were deatable under the Rating and Valuation (Apportionment) Act of 1928. To succeed in his appeal it was necessary for Lord Glanely to satisfy the committee that the operations carried on at his stud farms were agricultural operations. The appeal was decided in his favour.

The decision is the outcome of Lord Glanely's income-tax appeal in 1933, when the House of Lords decided that the profits from stallions' fees were covered by the assessments on his stud farms, a decision which conferred great benefit on breeding and horse racing in this country.

Expected 24 buildings in Sheffield which can be turned into first-aid stations and decontaminating centres, in the event of threatened air raids. The classes will be begun when these buildings are ready.
